

Is it difficult for your child to speak or be understood?

Your child may have a language or fluency disorder that makes it hard to understand what he or she is trying to say. Your child may grow out of the problem. However, a speech or language problem that isn't treated in a timely manner may result in a serious problem later. An evaluation may ease your concerns.

HealthBridge Children's Hospital Outpatient Department now offers Speech Group Therapy for children 18 months to 3 years of age

Children who show delays in cognition, language development, and social-emotional will benefit from this therapy that meets weekly on Wednesday and Friday for 120-minute sessions.

If you are interested in this therapy for your child beginning this summer, please call (714) 289-2400.

Register now because space is limited.

Program Description

Our pediatric speech therapists will use fun, creative instructional methods to teach your child correct production of speech sounds. The goal is to increase your child's intelligibility and skill to produce different sounds. The session ratio will be 1:3. Each session will include:

-  Opening Song
-  Reading Time
-  Closing Song
-  Craft/Sensory activity
-  Language activity
